Story Details

Storyline:

Desperate to find his lost spellbook amidst the magical disarray, Zephyr inadvertently botched a searching spell, first becoming a sleek cat that playfully batted at scattered scrolls, then a frantic rabbit bouncing off shelves, and finally a squawking parrot repeating incantations, all under Whiskers' unimpressed gaze.

Climax:

As the parrot Zephyr loudly mimicked a "find me" charm, his gaze landed on a subtle bump beneath his own pillow, revealing the very spellbook he sought, at which point he swiftly transformed back into his human self amidst a puff of smoke and a relieved sigh.

Moral:

Even the most powerful magic can't substitute for a simple habit of organization.
